THE GLASS SUPPER

A perfect understanding

Long lasting business relationships are built on firm friendships and a clear understanding of each others business needs and objectives. For this reason, we believe it's important to get to know our business partners better than ever so we can forge an even closer bond and fully focus on the things that are really important to them, to meet with and to frequently exceed, their expectations.

The world as we know it is changing; people respond by changing, technology is perpetually changing. This sea of change that surrounds us gains ineffable momentum when people come together in face to face communication, because face to face communication is perfect communication; all our essential communication tools come into full effect. Language, facial expression, verbal expression, vocal intonation, physical composure or body language, eye-contact, touch, smell, dress sense. There is no ambiguity, no grey area as it all becomes clear, just like glass, we can see who it is we're talking to; see who it is we want to do business with. The objective of The Glass Supper is to be a super conduit to enable this. An intimate event that facilitates face to face communication and essential networking opportunities with people we need to know and understand perfectly, or would like to know and understand perfectly, it's that simple.

The inaugural "Glass Supper" will be held On Thursday 8th December at the Edwardian Radisson Hotel, Holborn, right in the heart of London. Designed as an intimate gathering of a few visionary individuals noted for their passion when it comes to high performance architectural glass. The event begins with an afternoon of topical discussion and debate based on issues that look set to become disruptive technologies and show signs indicative of the way the industry intends to move collectively forward. A detailed breakdown of events is included in the attached program. These open discussions are followed later that evening with attendees making their way into the hotel banqueting suite and taking their seats to break bread for the much anticipated "Glass Supper". It's time we get to know and understand each other.... perfectly.

The inaugural "Glass Supper" is presented by Intelligent Glass Solutions and will be held on Thursday 8th December at The Radisson Edwardian Bloomsbury Street Hotel, Holborn, London
